

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A signature processing method determines, when displaying an input signature on a display unit, whether a predetermined condition is satisfied. When it is determined that the predetermined condition is satisfied, the signature on the display unit is displayed in a manner that it is difficult for others to discern the signature.